Dialing 2-1-1 is now available statewide in Arizona, providing guidance for those in need of health and human services in their communities.

Community Information and Referral Services (CIR) is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) agency and has been the lead agency for up-to-date information on community, health, and human service resources in Arizona since 1979. 2-1-1 Arizona, as a program of CIR, is the primary source of information for:

- Utility assistance programs
- Rental assistance programs
- Homeless services
- Emergency food
- Transportation information
- Medical and mental health services
- Community services
- Volunteering and donating
- And so much more...

CIR assisted nearly 650,000 individuals in 2011!

The 24/7 helpline is staffed by highly trained Information and Referral (I&R) Specialists and offers a wide range of up-to-date programs and services. 2-1-1 Arizona features a computerized database of over 13,000 participating programs and over 37,000 community services, including government, nonprofit organizations, self-help support groups, civic clubs, professional associations, and many more.
